Moses Cone Hospital Project

The Public Art Endowment (PAE) and Cone Health are commissioning an iconic piece of art that will go in a large circular area between the Cone Health Heart & Vascular Center and the Women's & Children's Center at Moses Cone Hospital. The budget is $300,000 for the project with $75,000 from PAE and $225,000 to be raised by Cone Health Philanthropy.

The two entities are looking for an artist to create a work that is site-specific, thought-provoking, hope-filled, and visually engaging. It must connect with visitors and patients. In recent years, Cone Health has put emphasis on placing works of art in its buildings, and the PAE has been changing Greensboro's public landscape with art projects since 2008.

Gateway Sculpture, by David Hess

A collaboration between the Community Foundation of Greater Greensboro's Public Art Endowment (PAE) and the Greensboro Science Center for the facilitation of the fabrication and installation of a work of a public art to be displayed on the outside of the GSC facility located on Lawndale Drive in Greensboro, NC. This site will be accessible and free to all who come into the park area. This art project will focus on transforming the entry plaza of the GSC's newly renovated entrance as a special place to gather and interact with science and art at the same time!

Along with $75,000 and $30,000 in in-kind services from the PAE, the project now has a budget of $275,000 due to $170,000 in gracious gifts from our patrons. The PAE selected Maryland artist, David Hess, in January 2020 to design and create the new sculpture scheduled for Spring/Summer 2021. Fall by Andy Dunnill

Fall by the late Andy Dunnill, an art professor at UNCG, was a gift from Jane and Richard Levy to the PAE who in turn gave it to the City of Greensboro in 2018. The piece was created in 1997 and has been shown in Chicago at the Navy Pier Exhibition and also at Socrates Park in NYC. It is a quintessential work of the artist, showing bold, imposing forms with figurative overtones.

Da Dans by Carl Powell

A new stained glass installation on the exterior of the Van Dyke Performance Space located at the Greensboro Cultural Center at 200 N. Davie in Greensboro, the piece is entitled "De Dans" and was a joint project of the Public Art Endowment, an initiative of the Community Foundation of Greater Greensboro, and the City of Greensboro. Installed in October 2017, the windows are illuminated at dusk every night.

The work was created by Asheville artist Carl Powell. The name is a nod to the Dutch heritage of the building's namesake Jan Van Dyke, and the building's design as a dance venue. Powell was inspired by both the facility's purpose and its surroundings.

"I tried to convey the joy of dance and my interpretation of movement and color that will hopefully relate to the space and to the wonderful park that is outside," he said.

Where We Met by Janet Echelman

The 2016 installation and lighting of the Echelman sculpture, commissioned to honor the area's rich textile history, was the highlight of the LeBauer Park opening ceremony week. The first permanent, commissioned artwork by The Public Art Endowment at The Community Foundation, Where We Met was supported by the LeBauer bequest and a $1-million grant from The Edward M. Armfield, Sr. Foundation, established by and named for the late textile industrialist.

The largest public art installation in the southeast, Where We Met is an undulating, colorful net hung high above the park's Great Lawn from four mammoth pylons positioned around the perimeter. The connecting shape from which the net is draped mirrors an 1896 map of N.C. railroad tracks connecting many of the state's major textile hubs at the time.

Peacehaven Sensory Space by Carrie Gault and Cynthia Frank

As children explore the space, they can run their fingers over a variety of textures, see bright colors and distinct designs, and listen to their voices echo through holes in the wall. Completed in 2016, this sculpture was completed through special gifts and leadership of Peacehaven Community Farm. Artists worked closely with the community to create a space that is accessible to children of all abilities.
